reports considerable damage to some corn fields by the corn-root worms.
These voracious pests work so rapidly that at times fine stalks will fall over and die, their entire root system having been eaten out by the worms.

W. B. Melton was a business caller at this office yesterday. Mr. Melton has analyzed the situation in reference to a successor to the late Senator Sheppard, and from the standpoint of integrity, worthiness, ability and dependability as among the 29 aspirants "Mann's the Man". We can only add our hope that there are a million or so more just like him in Texas.

Some commendable efforts at weed clearance have been put forth recently by some of our citizenship.
Commissioner Alfred A. Bader set a commendable example worthy of ac-ceptation by all when he cut and afterwards burned the weeds on the Public Park on the south side of town. The park was transformed from an unsightly wilderness of weeds to a grassy lawn by the process. Now is the time to kill the weeds, before the ripening pollen begins to blow and produce hayfever and the ground becomes reseeded for another crop of weeds.

MISS JO REILY HONORED

A gracious affair honoring Miss Jo Reily prior to her marriage, which is an event of this week, was the bridal shower and tea Friday afternoon, May 30, from five to seven o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Jacqueline Lacy. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Lacy, Mrs. O. A. Fly, Mrs.
D. H. Fly, Mrs. Henry Merriman, Mrs. John Earle Barden of Houston, Mrs. L. E. Kollman Jr., and Mrs. Barnitz Carle.

Mrs. R. J. Reily, mother of the honoree, received with Mrs. Lacy and Miss Reily, while Miss Kathleen Reily presided over the guest book.
The others in the houseparty alternated in greeting guests in the gift room and presiding at the tea table in the dining room.

The reception suite was decorated with lovely arrangements of summer blossoms. Vases of giant pink and white zinnias were used in the entrance hall; red dahlias, carnations and sweetpeas and white feverfew blended skillfully in one room, while in the gift room purple and pink petunias were arranged in floor baskets. Pink and red radiance roses in crystal vases adorned the piano, mantel and end tables in the music room. Here also the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. Jacob Reily, was seated.

Venetian lace covered the refreshment table, which was centered with a low silver bowl of pink sweetpeas and fern and softly illumined by tall pink tapers in double crystal holders.
Pastel sweetpeas and fern were combined in decorating the buffet. Frozen mint salad, sandwiches, and iced tea were served.

A musicale provided entertainment during tea time. Those on the program were Miss Merle McCall, flutist, Miss Ivy Jean McCall, Miss Adele Scott and Miss Eloise Kollman, pianists, and Henry Martin Finger, singer.

Miss Jo Reily's frock was white waffle pique with a deep yoke and sleeves of linen lace. Her shoulder corsage was red carnations and sweetpeas. Mrs. Reily, in blue jersey, and Mrs. Lacy in pale green chiffon, wore coral gladiola corsages.
Miss Kathleen Reily wore a bouffant frock with a blue tulle skirt and silver lame bodice. Yellow moss roses were worn in her hair.

Mrs. O. A. Fly was in pink lace and her flowers were lavender asters. Mrs. D. H. Fly wore a white tulle skirt with a blouse of white sheer trimmed with lace, and a corsage of pink asters. Mrs. Merriman wore blue delphinium with her dress of pink eyelet embroidery. Mrs.
Barden wore a gown of pink mousseline de soie over taffeta and blue delphinium and pink snapdragons in her chignon. Mrs. Kollman's black and pink jersey dress had a corsage of pink and lavender asters. White marquisette and pink asters were worn by Mrs. Carle.

About sixty guests called.

YANCEY SENIORS TO CARLSBAD

To round out a highly successful year which included two presentations of the Senior play, attendance at the Battle of Flowers Parade in San Antonio and publication of a high school annual as well as a weekly paper, the Seniors of Yancey High School visited Carlsbad Caverns May 27th.

Those making the trip were the Seniors, Amy Melton, Lanell Wiemers, Neal Saathoff, Willard Wilson, Mildred Ward, Ruth Hardt, Helen and Ellen Muennink, Milton Poehler, Esther Fessler, Tennille Duderstadt and Elmer Hartmann; and their sponsors, Mrs. Melton, room mother, and Mr. Allen and Mr. Cain, teachers. The group left Monday morning, stopping to see Judge Roy Bean's well-known "Jersey Lilly" and reaching Pecos early in the afternoon. Here they stayed both Monday and Tuesday nights.

Tuesday they crossed into New Mexico to view the wonders of nature in the world-famous Carlsbad Cavern. After walking for about two hours, they had lunch in the dining room 750 feet beneath the earth's surface. Next they passed through the "Big Room" with its many majestic rock formations, some millions of years old. From here they went out of the caverns again.

On the return trip Wednesday, the group passed through the Davis Mountains. They went by the Mc-Donald Observatory, but it was not open at the time. They reached Hondo about 8 o'clock in the evening, well pleased with the trip—and with themselves for making it possible.

THINKS A CHEESE FACTORY WOULD HELP

This paper has had occasion often to mention the fine honey produced by Mr. Wm. Huegele, but his success is not limited to beekeeping alone.
Mr. Huegele is a successful producer of high grade cream as well. He finds it profitable to ship his cream at present prices. However, his observation of the cream producing facilities of the community has convinced him that a cheese factory is among the possibilities for a new and profitable industrial enterprise at Hondo
—and we think he is right.

Mr. Huegele would like to talk the matter over with any others who may be interested—and all of us should be! What do you say?

Cotton production is out; commercial grain production is uncertain; but milking time comes around regular.

QUIHI NOTES

But when his brethren saw that their father loved him (Joseph) more than all his brethren, they hated him, and could not speak peaceably unto him. Gen. 37:4.

That coat of many colors begins to work. The monetary value of the garment might have been small, but the motive behind started the misery.
In a large family like that of Jacob, a jumbled mixture of polygamy, several mothers and their respective influence, several camps of children and their particular spheres of sentiments and ambitions, differences in social rank and background, all this in itself put the "pater familias", the war-scarred patriarch, in hot water almost daily. It took a large stock of paternal wisdom, patience, diplomacy and self-control to get along without friction. One batting of the eye in the wrong direction, one slip of the tongue or unguarded judgment made the flames crackle. An intentional bias and preference, an exhibit for a long time, and now topped off with that coat of better fabric than what the other sons wore, that seemed to make conditions unbearable all around.

Hatred flared up against Joseph.
So far the "jaundiced eye" of jealousy and envy was only frowning at him. Ruffled feelings and a general irritability in the daily schedule was no rarity up to then. Things took a turn for the worse now. Open hatred, no peaceable word in the conversation, an unveiled feud, a declaration of family-war. For reasons less clear, there was no alteration with the father, no protest, no petition for redress and adjustment, no plea for a fair and square deal to everybody.
It might have turned the tide, making the father realize his step in the wrong direction, setting things aright. Envy does not care to reason it out. It resents every act or move deviating from its own notions. It loves to suffer under a real or imaginary offense. Always ready for an ultimatum, it prefers the war-path to any negotiated peace terms.

After all, who footed the bill for that coat? And again, why take it out on Joseph? If he is a more likeable chap, will envy change it? If the father's heart responds to his characteristics more than to those of the other sons, who will command that coat? Should Joseph have refused to wear that coat or turn it over to another brother of his, and saddle the envy on other shoulders? Or reprimand his father for being partial? The gulf between the two parties would not have been bridged, no matter what efforts might have been attempted. Not even if every boy had received such a coat. They knew father's heart would not be wrapped up in it. Envy is an exaggerated piece of self-love, self-glory and superiority, and no natural power and exertion is able to knock it out of the system, if no higher, spiritual powers intervene.

Envy has a long history. "To be as God", envy against God, was the first sin. It brought about the first murder on record, that of Abel. Similar cases in uncounted millions. Jacob had it out with his brother along the same line of envy, and Aaron with his brother Moses. The very disciples of Jesus could not banish the spectre, and the pharisees and scribes in Jerusalem outdid all others while manhandling and crucifying their King. Take whatever period in secular history you wish, envy, only too often, is the spurring stimulus behind the scene of activity, whether in peace-time reckless competition or in war-time marshalling of forces and resources toward extinction of the competitor, though envy, like jealousy, "dislikes the world to know it" and so it, artfully, coins its own vocabulary and phraseology of moral piousness to hide the monster's face and claws, and, meanwhile, goes on lustily in disrupting families, communities and nations.

Any remedy? Where is the David to lay low this giant Envy, not with

REV. GERALD BOEHME

Rev. Boehme, who will receive his ordination to the Priesthood on June 12th, is a Medina County boy. He is Castroville, and a grand-nephew of the late August Kompf, for many years County and District Clerk of Medina County.

hosts—whom thou hast defied—that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel?" That God has championed the cause of envied Joseph. He is still at the helm of things.
Wait and see.

Incidentally, we have heard that Mrs. H. H. Balzen has returned home after a prolonged visit with her children, Rev. and Mrs. F. Brucks.

A painful accident happened to Mr.
F. Hartmann while working at the combine. The fingers of his right hand were badly mangled, but to all appearances the injury will have no fatal consequences, so that he may take up his work again after some involuntary recess.

Mrs. Margaret Balzen, of San Antonio, whose physical condition gave much cause for concern for a while, seems to be slowly improving, much to the joy of all that know the venerable lady.

ENJOY ANNUAL PRIZE SHOOT

Several hundred members of the Quihi Gun Club, their families and visiting friends enjoyed an all-day celebration of their annual prize shoot at the club grounds Sunday.
Prize shooting for members only began at 8 a. m. and kept up until the prizes were all claimed. Charles Lindeburg came up as high man in the shoot, making a score of 58 out of a possible 60. Approximately 150 men competed in the shooting which was limited to members. After four o'clock trap-shooting was enjoyed by both members and guests.

The day was spent in social mingling of those present and the renewal of old acquaintances, and when hunger made its appearance or thirst —as happened frequently—intruded its presence there was an abundance of delicious barbecue and the brew that cheers to be had for satisfying the cravings of the appetite.

Emil and his Twilight Six furnished music at intervals throughout the day and dancing was free from 2 to 5 p. m. for all who wished to participate.

The grand finale was the evening dance at which the music was played by the Premier's Orchestra.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

I been reading some pieces by this Mr. Pegler. Brother, there is a duck who is ambidextrous.
He packs a haymaker, port and bow. If he figures that labor is being lead to slaughter, he says by whom—by full name.
You don't have to guess who he means, even if it is the Youth Movement sleeping in the White House. He wades in with his head down, and they start counting over the other guy, quite often.

We been needing a debunker on our U. S. A. Labor for quite a spell. Too many people have been saying they are out to help labor, but they have not been overlooking their own nests—and feathers for it.

Even there on the pure and honorable Potomac, they could stand some mild fumigating. But not too mild.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA

THIRTY SECONDS OF DESTRUCTION

Count thirty seconds—one-half of a minute.

In that insignificant length of time fire destroyed $285 worth of property somewhere in the United States. In that time, fire attacked someone's home, someone's store, someone's factory, endangering life and irreplaceable possessions. And during each half minute of every day, seven days a week, 365 days a year, fire will continue to destroy $285 worth of property unless we do something about it.

No one should say that he doesn't know what to do. Basic fire prevention is simplicity itself. The National Board of Underwriters recently laid down the rules for a successful fire prevention campaign in a few words when it said: "Look around you!
Burn that rubbish! Stamp out that cigarette before you throw it away!
Keep gasoline out of the house! Fight fire before it starts!"

Fire, believe it or not, has killed more Americans than all the wars in our history. And fire, today, is even more dangerous than in normal times.
Fire menaces the defense effort.
Fire in a key factory may stop the production of essential parts for days and weeks. And fire, at all times, wastes materials, labor, energies—and that most precious of elements, Time.

Those institutions whose job is fighting fire are redoubling their efforts. The National Board, for instance, is using its full facilities, without charge, to help the Army and Navy departments prevent fire in army camps, navy yards, munitions plants, etc. It is carrying on an aggressive, 24-hour-a-day fight against the saboteur. But, vital as this work is, it is not enough. Every American must help if fire is to be defeated. And that means you!

BANKS IN NEW ROLE

Writing in Banking, Albert W.
Atwood makes this observation:
"Shakespeare said that one man in his time plays many parts, and so it is with banks. Throughout the long depression they absorbed the mounting national debt, then as the defense program got underway their lending function became of vital importance, and now they have still another role to play. It is their privilege and duty alike to educate and assist the public to invest in the three new kinds of United States savings bonds."

The banks of this nation are taking on this job purely as a necessary public service in a time of unprecedented spending. The banker knows the dangers of inflation. He knows that thrift and common sense must rule if we aren't going on a spending spree that will produce the worst hangover in our history. He knows that the worker who has a reserve fund in the form of government bonds has a cushion which both he and the country may require in the future, when the wars end and the boom deflates.

Thousands of banks are now selling the new defense bonds. For those who are unable to buy bonds now, inexpensive defense stamps may be purchased and accumulated until a total sufficient to obtain a bond is reached. All of the stamps and bonds are fully guaranteed by the United States Treasury.

Visit your bank and investigate this method of defense investment. A defense bond is a safe place for your money—and each one purchased helps build a barrier inflation. Buy all you can,

DIRECTOR AT ELLINGTON FIELD

Sunday's Houston papers announced that Charles (Jake) Schuehle, former star fullback of the Rice Owls, has been appointed assistant athletic director of Ellington Field in Houston and will take complete charge of the athletic program there within 15 days. The announcement was made by Col. Walter H. Reid, commander of the aviation field.

Jake was recently named assistant coach at Conroe High School but passed up this appointment for the Ellington Field post, which comes under civil service. The husky former grinder spent some time this week at Randolph Field in San Antonio, attending a meeting of athletic directors of the Gulf Coast area, and will report to the Houston field soon.

He will act as coach for the baseball, football and basketball teams at Ellington and also will have charge of general physical conditioning of the cadets.

Jake is the son of Sheriff and Mrs. Chas. J. Schuehle of Hondo.
After completing his grid career at Rice in 1939 he obtained his master's degree at Columbia. He played two years of pro football and also served one year as physical education director at the Nebraska Agricultural College in Curtis, Nebraska.

Jake lettered three years in football at Rice, lettered in baseball, got a freshman numeral in basketball, was one of the best swimmers in the history of the school, was a good hurdler in track and also was the best fly and bait caster in the physical education classes, according to The Houston Chronicle.

His title at Ellington Field will be assistant athletic director, serving under H. L. Berridge, who is in charge of the Gulf Coast area.

FOOD FOR DEFENSE

By Nell L. Foley,

County Home Demonstration Agent.
Whole grain products supply a rich source of Vitamin B1 (Thiamin), B2 (Riboflavin) and iron. These vitamins are great factors in the prevention of pellagra, in combatting anemia, and building a strong nervous system. The following recipes have been used successfully by the Farm Security Administration and The Extension Service in promoting the use of whole grains.

Canned Wheat

Clean and wash wheat thoroughly.
Rinse several times. Soak over night in twice the amount of water as wheat used. Drain off liquid and bring to boil. Add soaked wheat, boil for five minutes, stirring constantly.

Fill No. 1 cans with 9 oz. of wheat.
Add 1-2 teaspoon of salt and cover with water in which wheat was boiled.
Seal while hot and process No.
1 cans for 30 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

Fill No. 2 cans with 17 oz. drained wheat, add 1 teaspoon of salt, cover
with water in which wheat was boiled.
Seal and process for 40 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

Remove from cooker and place in cold water. When cool, clean, dry, label and store.

Suggestions Regarding Use

1. Whole wheat may be substituted for rice or macaroni and served with meats and gravy.

2. Whole wheat may be added to soups as a substitute for rice or macaroni.

3. Use any good rice pudding recipe substituting amount of wheat for rice and make a delicious dessert.

4. For a breakfast food add a little wheat, cook 4 or five minutes and serve with whole milk and stewed or fresh fruit.

Whole Grain Cereals

Wash wheat three times very good and rinse again if water is not clear.
Then dry the wheat in the sun or in an oven with a VERY LOW temperature.

For making flour grind the cleaned, dry wheat very fine and if desired, the bran can be sieved out. In making ground wheat to be used as a cereal, loosen the mill and grind wheat to desired consistency, which is generally like the consistency of grits.

NOTE: Other grains are prepared as the wheat, as corn, rice, and the SORGHUM GRAINS.

Home Made Grape Nuts

3 cups flour
3 cups oatmeal
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups whole wheat flour
3 cups corn meal

1/2 cup sorghum or molasses Milk to make stiff dough, about 1 quart. Roll out like pie crust, bake until brown. Run through food chopper. Makes three quarts. Two rounding tablespoons are sufficient for one serving. Serve with sugar and whole milk or thin cream.

Milo Maize or Hegari Drop Cookies
2 eggs 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 cup brown sugar 1 teaspoon nutmeg
3 T. fat 2 cups oatmeal (quick cooking) 3/4 cups raisins

8 tablespoons sour cream or buttermilk 2 cups finely ground grain sorghum 1 teaspoon soda 1 teaspoon cinnamon powder

Beat eggs, add sugar and sour cream or buttermilk. Mix flour, soda, baking powder, salt, spice, oatmeal, raisins and nuts. Combine mixture and drop on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in hot oven 12 minutes.

Other recipes for using whole grain may be obtained from the home demonstration agent's office.

MRS. AUGUST E. SCHUEHLE DEAD

Death came rather suddenly and unexpectedly to Mrs. August E.
Schuehle at 12:30 P. M. Sunday, June 1, 1941, at her ranch home north of Hondo. While her health had been frail for some time she had not seemed dangerously afflicted, and had visited Hondo on Saturday afternoon preceding.

Her remains were brought to Hondo and funeral services were held at the Horger chapel at three o'clock Monday afternoon, with her pastor, Rev. W. B. Wheeler, of the New Fountain Methodist church, officiating.
Interment was made in the family plot at Oakwood cemetery by the side of her late husband who passed away on February 16, 1937.

Following were the active pallbearers:
Geo. J. Schweers, Andy Oefinger, Henry Schuehle, Henry Frerichs, Ernest Oefinger and Fritz A. Martin.

Mrs. Schuehle was a native of Medina County and spent her life on the ranch, where she was a loving helpmate to her husband and a fond mother to her loving children. She is survived by several children and grandchildren.

We have been promised a fitting memorial of this worthy wife and mother for our next issue.

FOR EVERY DAD.

I can't lay claim to anything as far as looks go. And when it comes to learning, I may be rather slow. But there must be something more in me than other folks can see, 'cause I got a little chap at home—he thinks a heap 'o me.

I've had my ups and downs in life as most folks have, I guess. And take it all in all I can't boast of much success. But it braces up a feller and it tickles him to know there's someone that takes stock in him, no matter how things go. To feel his hand in mine, so clingin' and so warm; to know he thinks I'm strong enough to keep him safe from harm; to see his lovin' faith and trust in all I say or do—it sort o'shames a feller, but it makes him better, too. That's why I try to be the man he fancies me to be, just 'cause that little chap at home he thinks so much of me. I wouldn't disappoint his trust for anything on earth, or let him know how little I just naturally am worth.

And after all it's easy up the better road to climb, with a little hand to help and guide you all the time. And I reckon I'm a better man than what I used to be, since I got that little chap at home. He thinks a heap 'o me. (By unknown writer; making the rounds of the press.)

KEEPING WILD LAND WILD PROTECTS TAMED ACERAGE

Contrasting the continuing agricultural history of the Nile Valley with that of the nearby valleys of the Tigris and Euphrates—where agriculture thrived and then declined—as a lesson for America in the wise use of soil and land, Dr. H. L. Shantz of the U. S. Forest Service emphasized relations between wild land and cultivated areas. Speaking at the Bicentennial of the University of Pennsylvania, he said:

"The headwaters of the Nile were far from the people who occupied the valley, hence they have not been over used. But the Euphrates and Tigris Rivers, which cradled the wild lands which lay above the world's civilization, were gradually destroyed by the destructive use of the valleys. The nomads of Abraham's time and before had overgrazed those hills, and the valleys swung rapidly from luxuriant oases to drifting sand deserts. Man has made a history of successive failures on the land which he has occupied. Successive races have passed from the picture on the Tigris, the Euphrates, and the Gila."

When the native plant cover is removed or destroyed, soil formation is checked, Doctor Shantz pointed out. We do not yet know the ultimate effect of cultivation. To build soil, it may prove necessary to leave a permanent plant cover. "The practice of primitive man in abandoning land which he has cultivated for a time and allowing it to return to native vegetation may be justified ultimately by the records in history and the findings of research." Both grasses and forests are effective in forming productive soils. Valley soils that once produced heavy grass or forests and now yield rich crops owe their productivity to long accumulation of rich soil material.

The 1940 season was rather unfavorable for Texas turkey producers. A wet cold spring resulted in a smaller hatch than had been expected and caused heavy losses both directly and indirectly through resultant disease. Such factors increasing the investment per bird for market, coupled with rather low prices seem to have discouraged many producers. Shipments during November 1940 totaled 556 cars, compared with 590 cars in November 1939; shipments in December were 567 cars compared with 613 in December 1939. Even with lighter shipments the carryover was less than that of a year earlier which had included a large proportion of market birds in addition to those kept for breeding. This, together with the fact that producers were holding fewer birds for breeding, explains largely why the number of all turkeys on hand January 1, 1941 estimated at 816,000 was only 85 percent of the number, 960,000 a year earlier.

In the Rio Grande Valley F. H. Rodgers, Mission aviator, is using his airplane to fight frost whenever cold weather threatens tender crops. Rodgers, by flying his plane back and forth across a 40-acre pepper tract at Donna for two and a half hours, prevented the plants from freezing. The constant flying kept the air disturbed to the extent that frost was not able to form on the plants. The warm air several feet above the ground was mixed with the colder air close to the ground, thus preventing frost formation. A lime "fog" was then laid by the airplane over the crops to prevent the sun's rays from withering the plants' leaves while they were still cold.

For the third consecutive year, the National Hereford Show will feature the growing Livestock Exhibit of The State Fair of Texas, it has been announced by Frank P. Holland, director in charge of livestock. Premiums have been increased for this breed of cattle, and the record-breaking sum of $30,000 will be offered, the largest amount of premium money ever offered by a fair for one livestock classification. This will also be the first time that the National Hereford Show has been held in the same city for three consecutive years. The increase in premiums and distribution of the awards will bring many additional animals to the 1941 Livestock Show, John Henry Dean, superintendent of the National Hereford Show has said. Mr. Dean said that more than 800 animals were shown in 1940, and that early indications pointed to more than 1,000 prize Herefords in the 1941 show. Harry L. Day, president of the State Fair of Texas, and Roy Rupard, Secretary, are now at work on plans to enlarge practically every department of the Livestock Show, and the prediction is that the 1941 Livestock Show will be one of the largest shows of its kind ever held in America.
Texas ranks seventh among the states in the number of hogs produced yearly, and about 25,000 Texas farmers grow swine on a commercial scale. In addition, a great majority of the remaining farmers regularly raise a few hogs for a home supply of meat. There is a price differential of 25 to 75 cents between Texas hogs and those fed in the corn belt. This is attributed to a large portion of Texas hogs being of inferior quality and which, consequently, produce second rate hams and bacon. Many Texas hogs which kill soft have the appearance of good hogs. Buyers cannot distinguish grain fed animals from those finished on feed that produces soft pork by merely looking at the live hog. More than $30,000,000 worth of pork and its products, or the equivalent of 1,000,000 hogs, are shipped into the state yearly. In the face of this it is surprising that more than 25 percent of the commercial hogs produced here are shipped beyond state borders for slaughter. Most of them go to California because markets in that state offer attractive prices.
Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Kollman and daughter, Patsy Lou, returned that took them 4,000 miles through that took them 4,000 miles through twelve states, including Texas. They accompanied Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wiede of Lockhart on the trip which included visits in most of the major cities in the states traveled through, highlights being from Detroit, Michigan, along Lake Erie through Canada to Niagara Falls. They visited the Falls both in the day time and at night, which is a wonderful spectacle at all times. On the return trip they left from Buffalo, N. Y., to Pittsburgh, Pa., on down thru the Virginias to Birmingham, Alabama, through Tennessee and home.
Mr. and Mrs. Noble Means of East Bernard were brief visitors of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Johnson Wednesday. Mrs. E. C. de Montel left last Thursday for her home in Wichita Falls, Texas, after a two weeks' visit here with Mrs. Ed de Montel. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. James Parkey, who resides on a ranch near Fort Worth, who arrived earlier in the week for a visit with her mother and her grandmother. Mrs. Parkey was formerly Miss Helen de Montel of Wichita Falls.
Since the first assignment of camps to erosion work, eight years ago, CCC enrollees have built 3,500,000 creek dams, planted more than 250,000,000 trees in gullies and fields subject to critical erosion, constructed 27,000 miles of terraces and installed 350,000 terrace outlet structures.

Miss Evelyn Knopp is spending the week with her sister, Miss Margaret Ann Knopp, at Our Lady of the Lake College, where they are preparing for their joint piano and violin recital next Sunday afternoon.
Robert Reynolds arrived last Thursday from Temple for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Reynolds. He returned to his job of highway patrolman at Temple Monday.
Justice of the Peace Anton F. Haller and Constable Henry Haller were over from Castroville Monday on business and while here paid the Anvil Herald office a pleasant call.
Misses Mimmi Doyle and Zelda Schweers who attended college in San Antonio last term are now at home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Schweers.
Mrs. M. J. Batot and little daughter, Barbara Ann, of Houston are visiting her mother, Mrs. A. J. Hutzler, and Lt. Batot's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Batot.

Commissioner McDonald still insists on a government fixed price on domestically consumed cotton and freedom to dump at any price on the foreign market. His plan would certainly beat the Federal administration's policy of destroying the foreign market. But we fail to see the justice to the American consumer of making him pay more for an American product than the foreigner pays. To retain consumers of one's products one must treat them fair.

—oO—

It sounds strangely inconsistent to hear men talk of "freedom of the seas" now when for four hundred years England boasted—and still sings—"Britana rules the waves". It sounds cold-blooded to prate of gambling the lives of millions of young men against the possibility of "loss of world trade" when for a hundred and fifty years we have built a tariff wall around our country to keep it out and but recently have all but sacrificed our foreign market for cotton to bolster that same tariff.

—oO—

Lindberg thus summarizes the progressive steps in the British aid program. "First they said 'Sell us the arms and we will win.' Then it was 'Lend us the arms and we will win.' Now it is 'Bring us the arms and we will win.' Tomorrow it will be 'Fight our war for us and we will win.'" And how any one ever expected our policy of selling to England and not to the other belligerent could lead to any other result than just that was never understandable to us. That the results have not run to a more rapid conclusion has been our surprise.

—oO—

In frontier times in America, when marauding Indians were wont to swoop down upon the exposed settlements with each recurring full moon, each frontiersman was an expert rifleman—a trained soldier of his times and circumstances. With the modern aeroplane making it possible for marauding parachute-jumpers to drop in at any time on any place that offers them loot, a new form of citizen soldiery is needed to be prepared to meet the new condition. Wishful thinking that it will never happen to us is well and good, but confidence in your own preparedness gives more substance to the wish.

—oO—

The ancestors of many of us Americans—some as did this writer's, before the Revolutionary war—left the British Isles to find freedom in the New World. The founding fathers thought they had established it permanently as a heritage for their posterity. It has been the boastful pride of several generations. Are times changing? In England Churchill recently asked Parliament for an endorsement of his leadership. In America, one Amon Carter takes advantage of the freedom of the press to suggest suppression of Lindberg's exercise of free speech because he voiced the challenge: "Is it not time for us to turn to new policies and to a new leadership?" Taking the comments of Amon's kind on Roosevelt's recent actions at their face value, we must have had somewhat of a "change of policy" and the leadership is not leading exactly as they would like. But whatever way that leadership may turn one can but wonder how long before Amon's free-press would follow suit were Lindbergh's free speech consigned to the fate Amon would decree.

FACING FACTS

Could we dispell from our mind the suspicion that behind it lies a well-planned propaganda scheme to make Roosevelt appear as a peace-loving martyr who is being pushed against his will by popular demand into intervention in Europe's recrudescence age-old war, we could find it in our heart for once to sympathize with him in the editorial attacks on him that are now appearing in the kept press, because of his alleged soft-peddling on his heretofore belligerent course.

But we don't know!

Is it possible that his recent "fireside" utterance did not please either side of the controversy over intervention vs. non-intervention?

Were the interventionists really disappointed in their leader's "vacillation", as some of them are pleased to term it, or was the popular reaction disappointing to Roosevelt to such an extent that he felt the need of further build-up of the war-mania and hence his attitude before the subsequent press conference a studied pose to that end?

His well known proclivities for and his masterful cunning at such schemes impels the suspicion, to say nothing about the similarity and the universality of the attacks—ostensibly—upon him by the papers that have their policies shaped by their financiers and not their editors.

But giving the President the benefit of the doubt, accepting his sincerity at its face value, perhaps we can find the reason for his change—if any—of his belligerent attitude.

The one significant utterance of his (as some one has denominated it) "war-tide talk was his admission—"with England's knowledge and PERMISSION"—that the Germans are destroying British shipping three times as fast as it can be built and twice as fast as Britain and the United States combined can build.

In making that admission, and failing to show wherein the throwing of our shipping into the fray could end or materially lessen the continuation of that proportionate destruction, he reduces to a mathematical certainty and fixes a definite time when the ratio of destruction to construction will not only wipe out of existence the much vaunted British navy, behind which our alarmists are wont to hide as our only defense, but our own as well.

Perhaps some such realization as that came to the troubled mind of a harrassed man in the lonely vigils of the night when he communed in thought with his naked soul alone—and gave him pause!

Something ought to—and let us hope that his seeming pause is real and sincere, not a pose for mere propaganda effect.

Facts established by figures are as inexorable as time and as inescapable.

And Mr. Roosevelt's figures—to say nothing of England's blundering catastrophes in her handling of this war—seem to be inexorably against her.

There is no indiscretion more disastrous than rushing unprepared into another's quarrel, no matter how strong one's sympathy may be.

The only defense worthy of the brave is self-defense.

Let's face the facts!

Let's be prepared!

—oO—

The race to fill the place from Texas left vacant in the United States Senate by the death of Senator Morris Sheppard is now on with twenty-nine aspirants in the field. After procrastinating for some time, Governor O'Daniel finally plunged in. Whether he has euerched Roosevelt into a position of neutrality as between himself and "My old friend, Lyndon Johnson", or is putting his own peculiar hold on the favoritism of the people of Texas against the almost fetish worship of Roosevelt, sought to be utilized in behalf of Johnson, does not appear on the surface. It does seem certain, however, that the entrance of the Governor fixes the race between the two men, with only a small personal following being left either of the three better qualified—Mann, Dies or Patman. The lone Communist claims to be the only candidate not pledged to follow Roosevelt into intervention in the European war—a most uncomfortable situation for real Jeffersonian democrats!

"With American cotton pegged at about $20 per bale higher than competitive staples in foreign markets, this country is definitely out of the world mart—at least for the time being"—declares Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas cotton expert, taking a rather pessimistic view of the future of the South's major industry. Predicting a 10,000,000-bale foreign carryover from the 1941-42 season, the University Bureau of Business Research director cited that Congress has boosted the loan price of cotton to 85 per cent of 1909-14 parity and that foreign production this year exceeds foreign consumption by 2,000,000 bales. The United States has thus at last lost its power to greatly influence world cotton prices by its policies of crop restrictions and above-market price loans," Cox declares. "The South has not yet come to realize the full significance to it of the changed cotton situation, and has, therefore, made relatively little progress in making the far-reaching adjustments to its economy made necessary by the loss of markets for its major farm products."

With the unsettled conditions of both domestic and world affairs, it would be rash to advise that there will be profitable prices for the farmers' products at harvest time. However, it is certain that all who live must be fed and clothed. It is equally certain that many men the world over have been withdrawn from productive labor, and are either already engaged in or are being trained for the work of destruction. This means a reduction in the production of the farm on the average and an artificial demand for the products of the farm. Therefore, whatever virtue there may have been in the New Deal's theory of prosperity through scarcity, there is no further need for that artificial stimulus. He who makes two blades of grass grow now where only one grew before will again be a benefactor to humanity whether it profits him or not.

—oO—

It is astounding that, in the present tax-bled condition of the people generally and the possibility of a most destructive war facing our country, the governor of our state would recommend the raising of $61,000,000 dollars by a transaction tax—a tax that would pyramid itself every time a commodity changed hands and pile its whole accumulation upon the ultimate consumer. The inevitable effect would be to curtail consumption, eventuating in a reduction in production with an accompanying loss of jobs and more or less chaos generally. Has common sense ceased to function? Is this what the people asked for when they elected him over all comers in the first primary?

—oO—

Don't let any one be so simple as to think for one moment a natural resources tax will not be paid by the ultimate consumer. There is no one else to pay it; for without consumers there is no sale; no sale no income to pay the tax and no incentive to produce. When the farmer pays for sulphur to kill his cotton fleas he pays the sulphur producer's taxes. The same is true of the oil producer's when he buys gasoline for his tractor. A natural resources tax is simply another production cost which must be paid by the customer. When the producer can not sell his product at a profit over all costs he soon goes out of business.

PIPES O' PAN

I saw a honeysuckle vine
Go creeping, and its tendrils twine
About a tree;
Illusive fragrance around it shed,
As peeping out a yellow head
It daringly
Paraded quaint old-fashioned charms, And stretched its slender reaching arms
To wave at me.

And when it blew its pipes of Pan,
I quite forgot I was a man,
But still a boy
I saw again the old homestead,
The attic room, the humble bed,
And, sick with joy,
I heard my father's morning shout
Which bade me quickly tumble out To day's employ.

And tapping at the window pane,
Like gentle drops of summer rain,— Delight to see—
The honeysuckle vine that grew Beside the door my barefeet knew In 'used-to-be',
And up it climbed in flowery fun,
Across the windowsill to run
And nod at me.
—MURRAY SKINNER.

THE PECAN TREE

The great Pecan tree slowly lifts Its arms, as years go by
To form a giant silhouette Against the Western sky.

Its graceful limbs have braved the storms
And torrid drouth, that sears, Bestowing fruitful bounty through A century of years.

And when God shared this lovely tree
Which He so freely blessed,
He smiled upon the rolling plains,
And gave to them, His best.

He fastened its tenacious roots Beneath the Texas sod,
Of Nature's Western garden spot
Designed for man—by God.
—MABEL G. AUSTIN

MORNING

The morning is a young girl, free and gay,
She peeks behind green hills; she steps with care
Across an arch to swing a sunbeam ray,
And drops a pink petunia from her hair.

She wears a frothy, starched white pinafore,
It blows like fondant clouds before the breeze,
She opens wide the pale blue curtained door,
And dawn spills out her vari-colored frieze.
—ZITA HARRIS.

FORGE IN THE SKY

The sun is like a mighty forge,
From morning until afternoon, Where white hot day is beaten in The softer metal of the moon.

The clouds are puffs of smoke that blow
Against the rafters of the dark;
Spring thunder is the hammer's clang
And every star a flying spark.

A burnished moon hangs in the sky,
The glowing forge now cold and gray
With sunset embers banked beneath The ashes of the Milky Way.
—ROBERT LEE BROTHERS.

THE STRUGGLE

The trees that grow on mountain side
Have lost their way from down below;
Their adventurous spirit now must hide
In rarer air and rockier earth To struggle against new winds that
blow,
Resisting death from want and dirth.

The mountain peaks, in fullness due,
(Their jagged pinnacles the piercing prongs
That cut the cowl of clouds right through.)
Left painful birth for life that's new,
Arose from suffering world that longs
For rest from such travail.

In valleys, far and wide,
Strong men are waging battles, too,
Against the might that would prevail.
Man to man they strive to hold,
Then conquer static self and build anew,
In some vast struggle, newer mold.
—GRACE NOLL SMITH.

MEMORIES OF SCHOOL DAYS

I watch the children on their way to school.
The happy boys and girls go skipping by,
Some tall, some short, and others just so high.
I wonder if they have so much to learn
That they might sometime skip the Golden Rule?
I wonder if the muddy swimming pool
Still makes the wayward sun-tanned boy to lie,
Causing his weary teacher much concern?
Oh, that my happy school days might return!
—VELOROUS CALL.

CELESTEGATION

Oh, come! Get on me and ride me and sit astride,
But hold on fast, as we will dip and roll and glide!
I'll carry you far up past Venus and the Moon,
As on the "Wings of Love" we will zoom fast in tune,
Up to the Seventh Heaven where we will abide.
—GEORGE CONNELLY FRENCH.

THE BUMBLE BEE

Out in our garden there's a big bumble bee.
He's buzzing around the magnolia tree.
He's visited the sunflowers and the hollyhocks,
And I expect he'll visit the four o'clocks.

He's such a happy, noisy little fellow
All dressed up in black and yellow.
He works away for hours and hours Collecting nectar from our flowers.

He comes when the days are hot and sunny
To gather the sweets to make his honey.
I'm always happy to have him come
With his whirring wings and buzzing hum.

He doesn't come to our garden every day.
And when he does, he doesn't always stay.
When he's worked the garden entirely over
He flies right off to a field of clover.
—M. VIRGINIA TAPP.

Hope is an angel.
Hope is akin
To joy and riches,
To medicine.

Hope is eternal.
Hope never dies.
Hope lives forever
In human eyes.

Hope is a candle
Lighting our way;
Growing still brighter
Just before day.

Hope is a handclasp,
Friendly and true,
Giving us courage
To start anew.

—LADIA O. JACKSON.

THE HAREBELL

On granite precipice and slope, Where other flowers cannot thrive,
Well can the hardy harebell cope
With scanty roothold, and survive.

The fragile bells of heaven's hue On thread-like stems wave in the gale;
To its far habitat how few
Of Nature lovers find the trail.
—FANNY HAZELTON BAKER.

PRIDE OF BIRTH

What signifies the land of birth,
The color or the creed,
No matter where upon this earth
Of mankind we take heed?

I come from here, you come from there,
And only hatred reap,
Humanity offers a prayer,
But all the world's asleep.

I may be white, you may be black,
Or yellow, brown or red,
Sun, stars or moon we shall not lack,
Nor rain from overhead.

And who of us shall choose if all In Hell or Heaven sleep?
Such ignorance turns bliss to gall,
It makes the angels weep.

It surely is an accident
That you are East, I West,
Upon this earth by God we're sent,
And He alone knows best.
—DOROTHY FAY.

BITTERSWEET

Sitting alone by the firelight's glow
While the tall white candles gleam,
I wander again down Memory's lane And your face comes back in a dream.

A dream of the days when our hearts were young,
As we wandered together hand in hand
And dreamed of the home we'd build some day
By the sea and the glistening sand.

But Fate decreed that our lives must part.
You kissed me and went away.
Though the years are long—yet your face I see
In the fire tonight as the flame dies
low,
You come thru the years and the dark and cold
And smile as you reach for my hand to hold.
—ALICE CELESTE GEENTY.

WHO TILTS YOUR SCALES, FAIR JUSTICE?

Ired men hell-bent to regiment
Don't seem to bring us much content,
Although they plead, 'Just trust us.'
A lovely miss may shut her eyes
To what goes on, philosophize—
But that is called, blind justice.

Fair Justice, both discreet and wise, Let's take the bandage from your eyes
Although you get a shock.
Best not to risk going totally blind,
And to still converse with freedom's mind
Than to put Our Land in hook!

MEDICAL RESERVES WANTED

All licensed physicians and surgeons who are Selective Service registrants were urged today by General J. Watt Page, State Selective Director, to apply for commissions in the Medical Reserve Corps.

"There is a shortage of physicians and surgeons in the Medical Corps," General Page said, "and such registrants can serve their country better as medical officers than as inductees for military training."

The War Department recently announced several thousand vacancies in the Medical Corps Reserve and that physicians and surgeons commissioned would be given the grade of first lieutenant.

General Page said that Texas' local boards have been instructed to see that while no practicing doctor whose services are necessary to his community is inducted for military training, the requirements of the armed forces for physicians and surgeons also must be filled.

Cooperation with the War Department in its procurement program, he said, "makes it particularly desirable right now that we avoid inducting men who have made application for a commission and who qualify as medical officers and thereby serve both the Army and themselves to better advantage. For that reason we are asking all local boards to communicate with physicians and surgeons among their registrants and encourage them to apply to the Corps Area Surgeon, Eighth Corps Area, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, for reserve commissions in the Medical Corps."

General Page pointed out that where such registrants do not take advantage of this opportunity to be commissioned, and if they are placed in Class 1-A, they will be inducted for military training under the Selective Service Act. Internes, if commissioned, will be deferred from active duty to complete one year's internship.

General Page also pointed out that only doctors who are graduates of approved schools who are licensed, or eligible to be licensed, to practice medicine in the state in which they live are considered for commissions in the Medical Reserve Corps.

LONG-TERM LOANS TO BUY FARMS TO BE MADE BY FSA

Loans with which worthy tenant farmers may buy family-size farms are to be made in Medina County, according to an announcement made today from Jack R. Welhausen, Farm Security Administration supervisor.

The second year, Medina County has been designated by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard as one in which this program will operate. Loans which bear three percent interest and are repayable over a 40-year period are to be made to worthy tenants, sharecroppers, and farm laborers to establish themselves on their own land.

"This program is very important now that we are engaged in this defense work," Mr. Welhausen said. "Ownership of land by people who farm it is a good defense against foreign 'isms' as well as possible invading armies."

Loan applications may be had from the Farm Security office located in the Leinweber building, Hondo, Texas. Both white and Negro farmers are eligible for these loans.

In The Land Of Cotton

New Orleans beauties prepare to welcome visitors to their city's annual Spring Fiesta, March 16-30. The part cotton has played in the building of New Orleans will play an important role in the Fiesta program with a cotton party scheduled as one of the main events of the program. Hostesses will wear ante-bellum costumes of cotton.

SOUTHWEST Sports-Work (Texas Capital News Service Feature)

By Close Margin U-Tex. Longhorns Win Championship

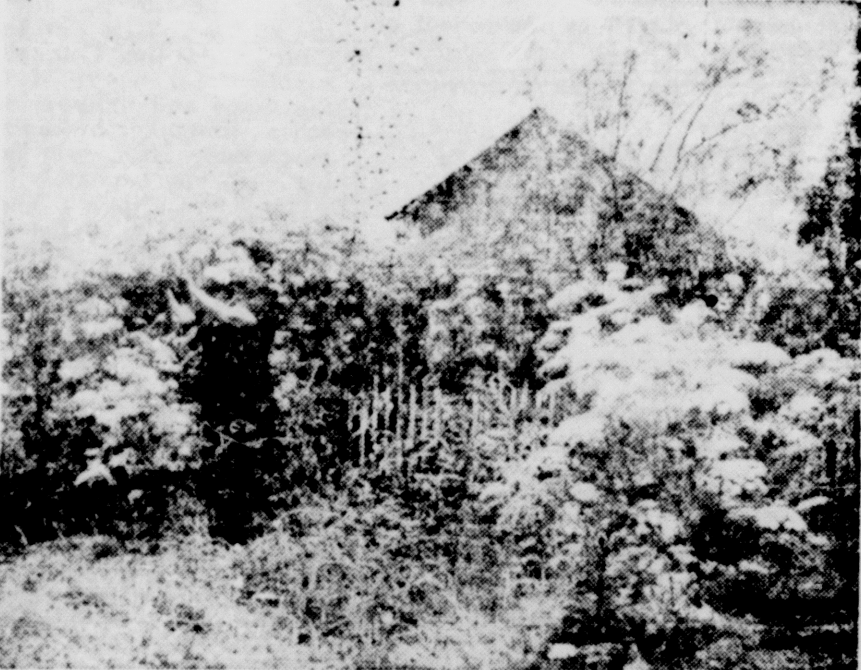

By the skin of their teeth, the help of Baylor and a one game margin, the University of Texas Longhorns base ball team of the Spring of '41 came through for Coach Bibb Falk to win the Southwest Conference championship, their 22nd. Blood pressures can now return to normal on the Forty Acres. Uncle Bill Ditch's physicians are reported resting easy again.

But Coach Marty Karow's Aggies gave the Steers the scare of a decade, until Pete Layden's homer in the tenth of that classic played on Clark Field, Austin, tied up top honors. Texas went on to beat the Texas Christian Horned Frogs with ease, while the Cadets from College Station let two unearned runs by the Baylor Bears set them down in the second row for the season.

In case you do not remember, Layden is the same boy who dealt out misery to the Aggies last Thanksgiving with his passing and the lone touchdown of that football game. Now, he is simply an omen of disaster so far as the lads at College Station are concerned. And he will be at it for another year.

Falk, who took over in mid-season last Spring to aid Uncle Billy Ditch, has come through his first full season to add another one of those little flags to the big pole in center field that attest to the prowess of U-T ball and bat men. He has experienced plenty of hard luck all season, especially with catchers, two going out on injuries. Strength in batting and the pitching staff is credited with pulling the fat out of the fire in what can only be termed a spectacular finish. (Texas Capital News Service Feature) have an all-out purchase of defense bonds and savings stamps.

We are going to have a big bill to pay in order to protect this land we love so well—and it will be worth every cent it costs to know that our country and those we love are safe. And when I stop and think that our Government thought far enough ahead to make plans to borrow money from us that it could pay back with interest, I swell with pride. The United States Government could have just imposed higher taxes on us—money to be paid in and nothing received in return but protection. Protection would have been a lot, but instead we are lending our money and will get it back with interest. When you buy one of these bonds, you are buying confidence in your country, your family, your neighbor and yourself. You are making it work for your country.

I could think of no more fitting memorial to those who gave their lives in the last war than to ask that all Texans do their bit now toward preparing defense which we hope will protect us and save the lives of our native sons.

Sincerely yours, FRANK SCOFIELD, State Administrator, Defense Savings Staff of Texas

The Texas State Federation Of Labor SPEAKS!

Through Its Secretary, Harry W. Acreman

The Rising Cost of Living

Authentic figures of agencies of the Federal Government, furnished to the National Defense Commission, give evidence that the cost of living in this country is advancing rapidly. For example, food prices rose from 1 to 8 per cent in two weeks during April of this year. While average prices on all commodities have risen nearly 6 per cent during the past year, foods went up 8.2 per cent, textile products 12.4 per cent, and building materials 7.8 per cent.

Reliable information emanating from the nation's capital reveals the defense authorities will permit a gradual rise in retail food prices up to ten per cent by the end of 1941. In this connection, Pearson and Allen, in their "Washington Merry-Go-Round" commentary declare:

"This increase is considered necessary to cover higher prices which the farmer will receive when the Government buys vast quantities of food for aid to Britain. But Defense price controllers will not tolerate more than 10 per cent, figuring that any greater increase would merely mean more profits for the middle-man. A firm check-rein will be held on speculation and profiteering under lend-lease food plans now being quietly formulated. The authorities want to make sure that the moderate rise in food prices will go to the farmer, also they want to prevent any skyrocketing of the cost of living."

The real producers of foodstuffs, the farmers, are definitely entitled to substantial increases in returns for their labor in the fields! Industrial workers certainly will not enter any complaints to paying more for the necessities of life if it is reflected in greater prosperity for agricultural workers, especially the independent farmers who risk both capital and their labor in planting, cultivating, harvesting and marketing their crops; or breeding, feeding and selling their livestock.

BUT, since the 10 per cent increase in such prices must cut down the industrial worker's buying power by a like amount, with the same effect as a pay cut, he will resent any efforts of speculating middle-men to muscle-in on the commodity market. This is no time to tolerate the manipulator who gambles in human needs to the detriment of producers and consumers alike.

In this situation the men and women of field and factory have a common problem, and they should cooperate in their efforts to solve it.

Organizations of farmers may be assured the Texas State Federation of Labor, affiliate of the American Federation of Labor may be called upon and depended upon for such cooperation!
